717. HUGEL, MAX, (Obituary No. 717.) 81 Ocala - Max Hugel, a successful businessman who helped elect Ronald Reagan to the Presidency and went on to serve as Bill Casey's Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, died Monday, February 19, 2007 at his home in Ocala, Florida. He succumbed after a long battle with cancer and its complications. Mr. Hugel was born on May 23, 1925 in The Bronx, New York. His widowed mother was forced, due to economic reasons, to place him in an orphanage, as she was unable to care for him financially. At the age of 18, Mr. Hugel enlisted in the Army, and was chosen to attend the Military Intelligence School at the University of Michigan, where he became fluent in Japanese. He was subsequently promoted to First Lieutenant in the Military Intelligence section of the Army. Upon his release from the military, Mr. Hugel utilized his considerable talents in the business world. With his knowledge of Japanese, he became the Chief Executive Officer of a small Japanese exporter of sewing machines, Brother International Corporation, and is credited with being one of the driving and guiding forces that ultimately mad Brother a $5 billion consumer giant. This was merely Mr. Hugel's first foray into the world of high finance. Mr. Hugel was the COO of Centronics Data Corporation, until he stepped down to pursue other business ventures. In 1983, Mr. Hugel, and 3 other partners, purchased Rockingham Park, New England's oldest and largest thoroughbred race track, after a devastating fire that destroyed the facility. Through hard work, determination and an incredible "vision" of what it "could" be, Mr. Hugel led the resurrection of Rockingham Park into one of New Hampshire's largest tourist attractions. Never one to be content with past accomplishments, Mr. Hugel pushed further into the business venue, where he became one of the earliest investors in the cellular industry, owned several communications companies, and at his death, was the Vice Chairman of the Carmen Group Incorporated, one of Washington DC's largest and most respected governments affairs firms. Mr. Hugel had a deep passion for this country, and had a firm belief in our political system. California Governor Ronald Reagan recruited Max Hugel first to his 1980 New Hampshire primary effort where Mr. Hugel helped turn in the decisive victory Reagan needed in that early outing. Later, Mr. Hugel chaired the Reagan/Bush National Voters Group division of the general election campaign and was widely credited with forging the pathway for the "Reagan Democrats" to identify with a Republican by being the first to organize farmer, ethnics, small businessmen and women, and more that a hundred other categories of voters by issue interest rather than political affiliation. With the election of President Reagan, Mr. Hugel followed him to Washington, serving in a variety of roles - as head of the Small Business Administration during the transition; later as the Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency for Administration (DDA) and then as Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency for Operations (DDO). As DDO, he was charged by longtime friend and Director Bill Casey with rebuilding the tattered human intelligence function at the CIA. Other public service stints included service as a Member of President Nixon's Economic Conference on Far Eastern Affairs and as Member of the National Commission on Employment Policy. Mr. Hugel along with his wife and partner, Diane, felt it was his obligation to help those less fortunate. As an example, each Christmas Mr. Hugel would dress up as Santa Claus and deliver Christmas "cheer" at Rockingham Park to the Needy. Mr. Hugel believed that charity was a personal situation and did most of his charitable work anonymously. Mr. Hugel loved the simplicities of life, and took great pleasure in either watching his horses gallop on his farm in Ocala, Florida or playing a round of golf with friends and family. Max's belief in God and Jesus gave him an inner peace until his death. In his own words prior to his death, "My greatest accomplishment during my life has been my love for my friends and family. In the end, nothing else matters". Mr. Hugel had four children, Susan, Richard, David, and Christine, and he and Diane were blessed with 10 grandchildren. Arrangements Entrusted to O.B. 749. HUGEL, MAX, (Obituary No. 749.) 81 Ocala - Max Hugel, a successful businessman who helped elect Ronald Reagan to the Presidency and went on to serve as Bill Casey's Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, died Monday, February 19, 2007 at his home in Ocala, Florida. He succumbed after a long battle with cancer and its complications. Mr. Hugel was born on May 23, 1925 in The Bronx, New York. His widowed mother was forced, due to economic reasons, to place him in an orphanage, as she was unable to care for him financially. At the age of 18, Mr. Hugel enlisted in the Army, and was chosen to attend the Military Intelligence School at the University of Michigan, where he became fluent in Japanese. He was subsequently promoted to First Lieutenant in the Military Intelligence section of the Army. Upon his release from the military, Mr. Hugel utilized his considerable talents in the business world. With his knowledge of Japanese, he became the Chief Executive Officer of a small Japanese exporter of sewing machines, Brother International Corporation, and is credited with being one of the driving and guiding forces that ultimately made Brother a $5 billion consumer giant. This was merely Mr. Hugel's first foray into the world of high finance. Mr. Hugel was the COO of Centronics Data Corporation, until he stepped down to pursue other business ventures. In 1983, Mr. Hugel, and 3 other partners, purchased Rockingham Park, New England's oldest and largest thoroughbred race track, after a devastating fire that destroyed the facility. Through hard work, determination and an incredible "vision" of what it "could" be, Mr. Hugel led the resurrection of Rockingham Park into one of New Hampshire's largest tourist attractions. Never one to be content with past accomplishments, Mr. Hugel pushed further into the business venue, where he became one of the earliest investors in the cellular industry, owned several communications companies, and at his death, was the Vice Chairman of the Carmen Group Incorporated, one of Washington DC's largest and most respected governments affairs firms. Mr. Hugel had a deep passion for this country, and had a firm belief in our political system. California Governor Ronald Reagan recruited Max Hugel first to his 1980 New Hampshire primary effort where Mr. Hugel helped turn in the decisive victory Reagan needed in that early outing. Later, Mr. Hugel chaired the Reagan/Bush National Voters Group division of the general election campaign and was widely credited with forging the pathway for the "Reagan Democrats" to identify with a Republican by being the first to organize farmer, ethnics, small businessmen and women, and more that a hundred other categories of voters by issue interest rather than political affiliation. With the election of President Reagan, Mr. Hugel followed him to Washington, serving in a variety of roles - as head of the Small Business Administration during the transition; later as the Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency for Administration (DDA) and then as Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency for Operations (DDO). As DDO, he was charged by longtime friend and Director Bill Casey with rebuilding the tattered human intelligence function at the CIA. Other public service stints included service as a Member of President Nixon's Economic Conference on Far Eastern Affairs and as Member of the National Commission on Employment Policy. Mr. Hugel along with his wife and partner, Diane, felt it was his obligation to help those less fortunate. As an example, each Christmas Mr. Hugel would dress up as Santa Claus and deliver Christmas "cheer" at Rockingham Park to the Needy. Mr. Hugel believed that charity was a personal situation and did most of his charitable work anonymously. Mr. Hugel loved the simplicities of life, and took great pleasure in either watching his horses gallop on his farm in Ocala, Florida or playing a round of golf with friends and family. Max's belief in God and Jesus gave him an inner peace until his death. In his own words prior to his death, "My greatest accomplishment during my life has been my love for my friends and family. In the end, nothing else matters". Mr. Hugel had four children, Susan, Richard, David, and Christine, and he and Diane were blessed with 10 grandchildren. Arrangements Entrusted to O.B. 1104. BARBER, EYV, (Obituary No. 1104.) 74 Millington, MI - Evy Barber, 74, passed away on March 20, 2007. Evy and her twin sister Emy, were born in Millington on July 18, 1932. They were the 5th and 6th children of Lavern and Golda (Jobson) Ostrander. They graduated from Millington H.S. in 1950 where they were known for their beauty, academic achievement, and active participation in several extra curricular activities. Evy went on to become a savvy successful business woman. Among her many credits her favorites were: having been a real estate broker in Phoenix, AZ during the building boom of the 50's and 60's; cooking for her brother's restaurant The Cider Barrel in Vassar in the 70's; and completing a career by retiring from the Wickes Corporation as Corporate Pension and Benefits Administrator. She loved to fish, to garden, and to say she liked to cook is like saying Michelangelo liked to draw. By far though, her greatest joy and passion in life was family. She treated nieces and nephews as if they were her children and friends, and friends as if they were sisters and brothers. She was generous and loved giving gifts, and to surprise people with them. Evy loved to travel as long as someone she loved was at the end of the journey. In 1959 she and Emy drove straight through from Phoenix to Michigan for her niece's wedding, with their combined five children under the age of 9, just to be with family. Evy will be welcomed in the next life by her parents, her beloved sisters Emy and Doris, brother "Bud", nephews Dennis and Dave, and niece Debbie. She leaves behind her daughter Jan Dougherty and fiancé Steve Titsworth; son Jon Barber; grandchildren Jen and Don Long, Erin Dougherty, Mark, Patrick, and Rebecca Stoner, Julia and Sarah Barber; great granddaughter Sara; ex husband and cherished friend Ket Barber; sisters and brothers Wanda Straw, Mary Lou and Jim DuBois, and Louis Gilbert; and Emy's children Jill and Bill Earl, Lori and Larry Gere, Shelly and Jim Cobb, and Scott and D'Anne Sandrsfield. She also leave many other truly loved nieces, nephews, and friends who each know her love in their hearts and will miss her greatly. Evy did not want a funeral, nor did she want anyone to grieve her passing but to celebrate her life, and so there will be no services except at graveside on Saturday, March 24, 2007 at 10 a.m. at the Millington Twp. Cemetery. Friends are welcome to attend. Memorial gifts of remembrance in Evy's memory can be directed to Genesys Hospice. 1114. BARBER, EVY, (Obituary No. 1114.) 74 Millington, MI - Evy Barber, 74, passed away on March 20, 2007. Evy and her twin sister Emy, were born in Millington on July 18, 1932. They were the 5th and 6th children of Lavern and Golda (Jobson) Ostrander. They graduated from Millington H.S. in 1950 where they were known for their beauty, academic achievement, and active participation in several extra curricular activities. Evy went on to become a savvy successful business woman. Among her many credits her favorites were: having been a real estate broker in Phoenix, AZ during the building boom of the 50's and 60's; cooking for her brother's restaurant The Cider Barrel in Vassar in the 70's; and completing a career by retiring from the Wickes Corporation as Corporate Pension and Benefits Administrator. She loved to fish, to garden, and to say she liked to cook is like saying Michelangelo liked to draw. By far though, her greatest joy and passion in life was family. She treated nieces and nephews as if they were her children and friends, and friends as if they were sisters and brothers. She was generous and loved giving gifts, and to surprise people with them. Evy loved to travel as long as someone she loved was at the end of the journey. In 1959 she and Emy drove straight through from Phoenix to Michigan for her niece's wedding, with their combined five children under the age of 9, just to be with family. Evy will be welcomed in the next life by her parents, her beloved sisters Emy and Doris, brother "Bud", nephews Dennis and Dave, and niece Debbie. She leaves behind her daughter Jan Dougherty and fiancé Steve Titsworth; son Jon Barber; grandchildren Jen and Don Long, Erin Dougherty, Mark, Patrick, and Rebecca Stoner, Julia and Sarah Barber; great granddaughter Sara; ex husband and cherished friend Ket Barber; sisters and brothers Wanda Straw, Mary Lou and Jim DuBois, and Louis Gilbert; and Emy's children Jill and Bill Earl, Lori and Larry Gere, Shelly and Jim Cobb, and Scott and D'Anne Sandrsfield. She also leave many other truly loved nieces, nephews, and friends who each know her love in their hearts and will miss her greatly. Evy did not want a funeral, nor did she want anyone to grieve her passing but to celebrate her life, and so there will be no services except at graveside on Saturday, March 24, 2007 at 10 a.m. at the Millington Twp. Cemetery. Friends are welcome to attend. Memorial gifts of remembrance in Evy's memory can be directed to Genesys Hospice. Hanlin Funeral Home has been assisting the Barber Family with Evy's arrangements.
