CORRY, VERNA ALMIRA, 90

Ocala - She once said she would never go anywhere without an invitation, but Verna Almira Corry, 90, was invited to the next life, and gracefully accepted in the early hours of the morning of May 6, 2011. She was born in Canada on June 25, 1920 to Myrtle and Norman Fenby, the third of four children. As a young woman, she moved to Dayton, Ohio, and worked at Wright Patterson Air Force Base where she met her future husband, William Adair Corry, whom she married on November 27, 1944 following a brief engagement. She was proudly naturalized as an American citizen on December 24, 1946, and spent the next four decades in Toledo, Ohio raising her family. She moved to Florida in 1986. Her lively character captivated generations of friends, family, neighbors, children and grandchildren. She had charisma, flair and an unwavering sense of style, gravitating always toward the brightest of colors, glitteriest of embellishments and the flashiest of flowers. Verna loved a lively party, basking in the sun, a great garage sale, a winning hand of bridge, true life murder mysteries and anything on sale. In true character, she fought with an unflagging intensity for life and independence right through her very last days on this earth. She lives on through her children: Grier and Rick (Michelle) Corry; her grandchildren: Eric, Zack, Michael, Doug, Emily, Danielle and Kyle; her great-grandchildren: Emily, Tommy, Anna, Adam, Anderson and Jenna; her dear adopted family: Sam, Phil, Reagan and Austie Matthews; and her special friends: Mary, David and Natalie. She was preceded in death by her first-born son, John Adair Corry and the two great loves of her life: her husband Bill Corry and dear friend and partner, John Toole. As was her wish, Verna's ashes will be laid to rest in the clear, gentle waters of Lake Hamilton and Lake Michigan in non-traditional ceremonies. A private celebration of Verna's life was held on May 11, 2011 at the home of friends. "Today, the light shines like the sun through her skin and when we ask what she did with her life, we will remember a thousand moments with a smile and will proudly say 'she was one of us.'"

CONWAY, McKINLEY

Shiloh, Fla., - Hobart McKinley "Mac" Conway, one of the most significant and influential figures in the history of economic development, passed away in Shiloh, Fla., on May 29, 2011. A prominent member of the Atlanta community for 66 years, Conway was 90. In the course of his distinguished career, Mac Conway created such a broad array of landmark moments that his life almost sounds like fiction- His passions and accomplishments spanned an inordinately broad spectrum: He was a publisher, an entrepreneur, a writer, a globetrotting adventurer, a pilot and a musician. Above all, though, Conway will probably be most remembered as a pioneer; and many of his most notable accomplishments came while Atlanta was his home. He was born on Nov. 1, 1920, in the small town of Hackleburg in northwest Alabama. At the age of 15, Conway was already a freshman at Georgia Tech, where he earned bachelor's and master's degrees in aeronautical engineering. In 1995, Georgia Tech added another honor, inducting Conway into its Engineering Hall of Fame. During his college days, Conway led his own big band, "The Techniques." That group was so successful that he briefly considered a career in music. Instead, the licensed pilot accepted an offer to work for the U.S. agency that later became NASA. Based at Moffett Field in California, Conway conducted high-level aeronautical research in the base wind tunnel, serving as project engineer for testing the Navy's first jet fighter, the Ryan FR-1. In the course of his aeronautical work, he met aviation giants Orville Wright and Jimmy Doolittle. Conway during those years made another fateful decision that was totally unrelated to his work: He married his college sweetheart, Rebecca Kellam, on Sept. 17, 1942, in Atlanta. After leaving NASA to return to Atlanta, Conway in 1949 founded The Journal of Southeastern Research - the first science journal ever centered on a single region. That publication caught the eye of a fledgling coalition of southern business and political leaders. In short order, they tapped Conway to be the director of the brand-new Southern Association of Science and Industry (SASI), a 15-state development alliance. Only 29, he spearheaded SASI's important role in transforming the then-backwater South into a business hotspot. He founded his own company, Atlanta-based Conway Data Inc., in 1947. By 1954, he had created another publishing milestone by launching Site Selection. Site Selection was the first magazine ever to focus on the then obscure domains of corporate real estate and economic development. Fortune's editors promptly took note, spotlighting Conway in 1955 as "A Man to Watch." Today, Site Select/on still dominates the industry. In the 1960s, he served in the Georgia Senate, joined by another son of the rural South, Jimmy Carter. Sen. Conway led the effort to establish Atlanta's mass transit system, MARTA, which became a model for the country. He also chaired the Governor's Commission for Scientific Research and Development and introduced Georgia's first "sunshine law." During that decade, Conway was also heavily involved in global affairs. His company in 1960 won the contract to lead the Agency for International Development/Private Enterprise Promotion

(AID/PEP). The U.S. State Dept. Initiated AID/PEP to demonstrate capitalism's superiority over communism in Central and South America. Conway traveled extensively to promote that goal. He organized delegations of Latin American leaders and escorted them to the U.S., where they learned from American business executives. Likewise, he frequently trekked to Latin America. In Panama, Peru and Venezuela, he organized and led Inter-American Development Conferences, connecting heads of state, cabinet ministers and business leaders. Vice President Lyndon Johnson in 1962 named Conway to a five-member team charged with strengthening economic ties with Southeast Asia. At the time, communists were aggressively jockeying for a foothold in that region. The U.S. team's Asian missions included an unforgettable trip to Burma (now Myanmar). In the midst of a formal dinner honoring the Americans, the commander general of the Burmese army took the microphone. The military had just overthrown the government, the general announced - then he immediately "Invited" the U.S. delegation to leave the country. The Americans flew out the next morning; to this day, the military still controls Myanmar. Conway had a special knack for creating groundbreaking organizations. He founded the International Development Research Council in 1961 and the Industrial Asset Management Council in 2002 - widely regarded as two of the world's premiere real estate associations. In 1991, Conway founded another unique organization, the World Development Federation (WDF). That organization linked the principal players in the world's billion-dollar "super projects." WDF mounted a series of conferences at sites scattered round the globe: Honolulu; Singapore; Barcelona; Osaka, Japan; San Francisco; Paris; Madrid; Atlanta; and Jubail, Saudi Arabia. Always eager to embrace new technology, Conway launched the development industry's first telecommunications network, SiteNet. Strikingly, he debuted SiteNet in 1983, a full decade before the Internet revolution began to remake modern life. Today, Conway Data's suite of Web sites attracts more than a million visitors a year. An avid world traveler, Conway visited 106 countries. On many of those trips, he piloted small private propeller planes, with wife Becky usually riding beside him. The Ramblin' Wreck from Georgia Tech flew for almost 60 years, logging more than 7,000 hours in the air. One of his most memorable flights was 1965's trip across South America, flying with his wife and daughters from the Pacific to the Atlantic. Piloting a two-engine prop, Conway crested the Andes Mountains and then plunged down steeply into the lush, untamed Amazon Basin; from there, he navigated the rest of the flight by following the river. That course took the Conways into terrain eons removed from modernization! They landed on rocky, primitive strips, showered in rainstorms, and bought a blowgun with poison darts from Peruvian tribesmen. In another noteworthy sortie in 1980, Conway and daughter Laura flew a single-engine plane all the way from Atlanta to Europe. The plane didn't have nearly enough fuel capacity to cross the Atlantic. Consequently, the pilots mapped out hopscotch course that required flying directly over the foreboding Arctic Circle. Navigating that difficult leg, though, facilitated vital refueling stops. Flying also inspired Conway to formulate the "airport city" model. In the late 60s and early 70s, he planned many fly-in developments around the U.S. Most notably, he developed the Spruce Creek community near Daytona, today the world's most famous residential airpark. He summarized his experiences in a 1977 book, The Airport City, one of 48 titles he authored. Conway in 2001 moved with wife Becky to a large tract of land in Shiloh in north-central Florida. They lived there in a five-building compound with their daughters. Even as an octogenarian, Conway remained remarkably productive. In the last five years of his life, he wrote 10 more books- Similarly, Conway remained an energetic presence in cyberspace, frequently posting Ideas online. And he continued his long association with The Futurist magazine, contributing articles about everything from desalination and ocean energy to the "super cities of the future." In addition to his wife, Conway is survived by two daughters, Linda Conway Duever and Laura (lack) Conway Lyne, and two grandchildren, Adam Jones-Kelley of Atlanta and Piper Jones-Kelley of Whidbey Island

Shiloh, Fla., - Hobart McKinley "Mac" Conway, one of the most significant and influential figures in the history of economic development, passed away in Shiloh, Fla., on May 29, 2011. A prominent member of the Atlanta community for 66 years, Conway was 90. In the course of his distinguished career, Mac Conway created such a broad array of landmark moments that his life almost sounds like fiction- His passions and accomplishments spanned an inordinately broad spectrum: He was a publisher, an entrepreneur, a writer, a globetrotting adventurer, a pilot and a musician. Above all, though, Conway will probably be most remembered as a pioneer; and many of his most notable accomplishments came while Atlanta was his home. He was born on Nov. 1, 1920, in the small town of Hackleburg in northwest Alabama. At the age of 15, Conway was already a freshman at Georgia Tech, where he earned bachelor's and master's degrees in aeronautical engineering. In 1995, Georgia Tech added another honor, inducting Conway into its Engineering Hall of Fame. During his college days, Conway led his own big band, "The Techniques." That group was so successful that he briefly considered a career in music. Instead, the licensed pilot accepted an offer to work for the U.S. agency that later became NASA. Based at Moffett Field in California, Conway conducted high-level aeronautical research in the base wind tunnel, serving as project engineer for testing the Navy's first jet fighter, the Ryan FR-1. In the course of his aeronautical work, he met aviation giants Orville Wright and Jimmy Doolittle. Conway during those years made another fateful decision that was totally unrelated to his work: He married his college sweetheart, Rebecca Kellam, on Sept. 17, 1942, in Atlanta. After leaving NASA to return to Atlanta, Conway in 1949 founded The Journal of Southeastern Research - the first science journal ever centered on a single region. That publication caught the eye of a fledgling coalition of southern business and political leaders. In short order, they tapped Conway to be the director of the brand-new Southern Association of Science and Industry (SASI), a 15-state development alliance. Only 29, he spearheaded SASI's important role in transforming the then-backwater South into a business hotspot. He founded his own company, Atlanta-based Conway Data Inc., in 1947. By 1954, he had created another publishing milestone by launching Site Selection. Site Selection was the first magazine ever to focus on the then obscure domains of corporate real estate and economic development. Fortune's editors promptly took note, spotlighting Conway in 1955 as "A Man to Watch." Today, Site Select/on still dominates the industry. In the 1960s, he served in the Georgia Senate, joined by another son of the rural South, Jimmy Carter. Sen. Conway led the effort to establish Atlanta's mass transit system, MARTA, which became a model for the country. He also chaired the Governor's Commission for Scientific Research and Development and introduced Georgia's first "sunshine law." During that decade, Conway was also heavily involved in global affairs. His company in 1960 won the contract to lead the Agency for International Development/Private Enterprise Promotion (AID/PEP). The U.S. State Dept. Initiated AID/PEP to demonstrate capitalism's superiority over communism in Central and South America. Conway traveled extensively to promote that goal. He organized delegations of Latin American leaders and escorted them to the U.S., where they learned from American business executives. Likewise, he frequently trekked to Latin America. In Panama, Peru and Venezuela, he organized and led Inter-American Development Conferences, connecting heads of state, cabinet ministers and business leaders. Vice President Lyndon Johnson in 1962 named Conway to a five-member team charged with strengthening economic ties with Southeast Asia. At the time, communists were aggressively jockeying for a foothold in that region. The U.S. team's Asian missions included an unforgettable trip to Burma (now Myanmar). In the midst of a formal dinner honoring the Americans, the commander general of the Burmese army took the microphone. The military had just overthrown the government, the general announced- Then he immediately "Invited" the U.S. delegation to leave the country. The Americans flew out the next morning; to this day, the military still controls Myanmar. Conway had a special knack for creating groundbreaking organizations. He founded the International Development Research Council in 1961 and the Industrial Asset Management Council in 2002 - widely regarded as two of the world's premiere real estate associations. In 1991, Conway founded another unique organization, the World Development Federation (WDF). That organization linked the principal players in the world's billion-dollar "super projects." WDF mounted a series of conferences at sites scattered round the globe: Honolulu; Singapore; Barcelona; Osaka, Japan; San Francisco; Paris; Madrid; Atlanta; and Jubail, Saudi Arabia. Always eager to embrace new technology, Conway launched the development industry's first telecommunications network, SiteNet. Strikingly, he debuted SiteNet in 1983, a full decade before the Internet revolution began to remake modern life. Today, Conway Data's suite of Web sites attracts more than a million visitors a year. An avid world traveler, Conway visited 106 countries. On many of those trips, he piloted small private propeller planes, with wife Becky usually riding beside him. The Ramblin' Wreck from Georgia Tech flew for almost 60 years, logging more than 7,000 hours in the air. One of his most memorable flights was 1965's trip across South America, flying with his wife and daughters from the Pacific to the Atlantic. Piloting a two-engine prop, Conway crested the Andes Mountains and then plunged down steeply into the lush, untamed Amazon Basin; from there, he navigated the rest of the flight by following the river. That course took the Conways into terrain eons removed from modernization! They landed on rocky, primitive strips, showered in rainstorms, and bought a blowgun with poison darts from Peruvian tribesmen. In another noteworthy sortie in 1980, Conway and daughter Laura flew a single-engine plane all the way from Atlanta to Europe. The plane didn't have nearly enough fuel capacity to cross the Atlantic. Consequently, the pilots mapped out a hopscotch course that required flying directly over the foreboding Arctic Circle. Navigating that difficult leg, though, facilitated vital refueling stops. Flying also inspired Conway to formulate the "airport city" model. In the late 60s and early 70s, he planned many fly-in developments around the U.S. Most notably, he developed the Spruce Creek community near Daytona, today the world's most famous residential airpark. He summarized his experiences in a 1977 book, The Airport City, one of 48 titles he authored. Conway in 2001 moved with wife Becky to a large tract of land in Shiloh in north-central Florida. They lived there in a five-building compound with their daughters. Even as an octogenarian, Conway remained remarkably productive. In the last five years of his life, he wrote 10 more books. Similarly, Conway remained an energetic presence in cyberspace, frequently posting ideas online. And he continued his long association with The Futurist magazine, contributing articles about everything from desalination and ocean energy to the "super cities of the future." In addition to his wife, Conway is survived by two daughters, Linda Conway Duever and Laura (Lack) Conway Lyne, and two grandchildren, Adam Jones-Kelley of Atlanta and Piper Jones-Kelley of Whidbey Island. PROCTOR, OSCAR EUGENE, 69

Brandon - Calling himself a Florida Cracker, Gene always had a yearn for adventure. His wanderlust carried him from a family farm in Pedro, FL and home in Summerfield, to travel the world many times. After high school graduation in 1942, he left Summerfield at age 17 to assist and chauffeur the Florida State Commissioner of Agriculture throughout the state. At 18, he joined the U.S. Navy, where he served in the Pacific during World War II. He later attended the University of Florida to graduate in 1950. Always ready to meet a challenge, Gene worked several jobs to get through college, including participation in an Army Reserve with an Amphibious Tank Battalion unit. Following graduation, Gene worked for an agricultural chemical company in Florida, but the job shortly ended when his battalion was called to active duty in the Korean War. During amphibious landing training operation on the central California coast, Gene met Rose, his wife to be. They married in 1951 and celebrated their 51 wedding anniversary before Rose's death. After discharge from the Army, Gene began employment as a surveyor with Bechtel Corporation, a large industrial engineering and construction company. The job he assumes to be temporary soon changed his life, as he found the engineering construction industry exciting and dynamic. Later stationed in San Francisco, his continued hard work and study brought many successful achievements, including assignments on several major projects in the U.S., Canada, Europe, South Africa, Latin America, Asia, Australia, and Saudi Arabia. Between 1978 and 1985, he spent seven years helping to create the $20 billion infrastructure of Jubail, to create the new industrial city on the Persian Gulf, as well as a $3 billion oil refinery project in the north-central Arabian desert. Gene's career at Bechtel spanned 31 years until retirement in 1985. After retirement, Gene served as a director of his homeowners association in Walnut Creek, CA. He was an avid sports and fitness fan, which included swimming laps and going to SF 49er games. He and Rose also enjoyed Bible study and spending time with family. "Wanderlust, challenge, and adventure," Gene said after retirement, "I sure do miss it". He will be greatly missed, but the strong family love and values he lived by will always live on. Gene passed on in Brandon, FL of natural causes. Preceded in death by his loving wife Rose, he is survived by daughter, Karin Proctor in Brandon, FL, step-son, Richard Robles and step-grandson, Kirk Robles in the San Francisco Bay Area, brother, Bill Proctor of Leesburg, FL, sister, Lorita Reinhart of Ocklawaha, FL, and many adoring nieces and nephews. A funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. June 10, 2011. at 1st Baptist Church in Oxford, FL, followed by a graveside service at Pine Level Cemetery in Oxford. A Troy State University graduate in Math/Science, he was a beloved teacher in that discipline at Ocala/Forest High School, retiring in 1990 after thirty-one years of service. Following retirement, he was involved from time to time in building construction and insurance sales. Bluegrass music and playing his guitar became major interests in his later years. He attended Ocala First Baptist Church with his wife Lois. HENDERSON, ALICE FAYE, 70

Chiefland - Alice Faye Henderson, 70, put off this earthly house on August 2, 2011 and now lives in a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens (11 Corinthians 5:1). Cancer ravaged her body but it could not conquer her spirit. Born January 17, 1941, Faye lived most of her life in Chiefland, Levy County, Florida. She attended Chiefland High School and graduated in 1959. She enjoyed school and especially sports. She was a hard driving basketball player, a cheerleader and played in the high school band. Her senior year she was voted "Most Athletic" and crowned "Miss C.H.S." On August 15, 1959, Faye married H.C. Henderson, Jr., who was her next door neighbor and high school sweetheart. The Lord blessed them with two loving sons, Skipper and Adam, and a wonderful marriage which stood the test of time for over 51 years. They owned and operated Levy Abstract & Title Company, in Bronson and Chiefland, for over half a century, helping people with their real estates closings and title insurance needs. Faye was a homemaker in the truest sense of the word. She knew how to make her house a home for her family. Among other things, she was a great cook and well known in her community for her delicious cakes and pies, which were very popular and quickly purchased at charity auctions, but were graciously given and shared with her friends and neighbors for many years. Faye had a zest for life and endless energy. She had a natural talent for decorating and landscaping, as evident in her home and yard. She enjoyed antiquing and was known to frequent antique malls, flea markets or other places where she might find a hidden treasure belonging to times long ago. Faye also enjoyed fishing with her husband and, more often than not, would out fish him. She was never ready to come home, believing that just one more cast would net her the biggest catch of the day. She had a spirit of adventure, and whether traveling with H.C. or her girlfriends, Faye was great fun. While Faye was full of energy and enjoyed both work and play, her greatest pleasure was in her family. She believed that it was important for them to spend time together and make sure that all birthdays and holidays were appropriately celebrated. After her family was grown she brought them back together with her Sunday after church dinners and her annual Christmas Eve oyster roast and feast. Faye was baptized into Christ at the young age of 14 and has been a member of the Chiefland Church of Christ for 56 years. She was a devout Christian, a student of the bible, Sunday School Teacher and a worker in God's Kingdom. Like Dorcas, in the Bible (Acts 9:36), she was full of good works and charitable deeds. Her most important goal in life was to go to heaven and through her teaching and by her example, take her family and as many others with her as she could. She was a compassionate, selfless, caring and nurturing woman who will be greatly missed by her family and friends. May her light continue to shine in the lives of those whose hearts she has touched. Faye was preceded in death by her parents, J.D. and Lovie Dyals, one brother, Oliver Dyals, and two sisters, Iris Geiger and Darlene Rowe. Left to cherish her memory are her husband, H.C. Henderson, Jr., two sons, Skipper (Jan) Henderson and Adam (Amy) Henderson, two brothers, John (Linda) Dyals and Dan (Judy) Dyals, three grandchildren, Lindsey Ann Henderson, Hill Henderson and Hayden St. John Henderson, two great-grandchildren, Marley Ann Revels and Memphis Dean Henderson, her mother-in-law, Essielene Henderson and a host of other relatives and friends. Funeral services will be held Saturday, August 6, 2011 at 10:00 a.m. in the Chiefland High School Auditorium with Brother Dwayne Derrick and Brother Tommy Andrews officiating. Burial will follow at The Chiefland Cemetery. Visitation will be Friday, August 5, 2011 from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. at Knauff Funeral Home-Chiefland. In lieu of flowers, the family is requesting that memorial donations be made to the Levy County Schools Foundation, P.O. Box 1386, Bronson, FL 32621. These donations will be used to fund a scholarship in Faye's name for a deserving high school graduate entering college. Arrangements are under the care of Knauff Funeral Home-Chiefland. HENDERSON, ALICE FAYE, 70

Chiefland - Alice Faye Henderson, 70, put off this earthly house on August 2, 2011 and now lives in a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens (11 Corinthians 5:1). Cancer ravaged her body but it could not conquer her spirit. Born January 17, 1941, Faye lived most of her life in Chiefland, Levy County, Florida. She attended Chiefland High School and graduated in 1959. She enjoyed school and especially sports. She was a hard driving basketball player, a cheerleader and played in the high school band. Her senior year she was voted "Most Athletic" and crowned "Miss C.H.S." On August 15, 1959, Faye married H.C. Henderson, Jr., who was her next door neighbor and high school sweetheart. The Lord blessed them with two loving sons, Skipper and Adam, and a wonderful marriage which stood the test of time for over 51 years. They owned and operated Levy Abstract & Title Company, in Bronson and Chiefland, for over half a century, helping people with their real estates closings and title insurance needs. Faye was a homemaker in the truest sense of the word. She knew how to make her house a home for her family. Among other things, she was a great cook and well known in her community for her delicious cakes and pies, which were very popular and quickly purchased at charity auctions, but were graciously given and shared with her friends and neighbors for many years. Faye had a zest for life and endless energy. She had a natural talent for decorating and landscaping, as evident in her home and yard. She enjoyed antiquing and was known to frequent antique malls, flea markets or other places where she might find a hidden treasure belonging to times long ago. Faye also enjoyed fishing with her husband and, more often than not, would out fish him. She was never ready to come home, believing that just one more cast would net her the biggest catch of the day. She had a spirit of adventure, and whether traveling with H.C. or her girlfriends, Faye was great fun. While Faye was full of energy and enjoyed both work and play, her greatest pleasure was in her family. She believed that it was important for them to spend time together and make sure that all birthdays and holidays were appropriately celebrated. After her family was grown she brought them back together with her Sunday after church dinners and her annual Christmas Eve oyster roast and feast. Faye was baptized into Christ at the young age of 14 and has been a member of the Chiefland Church of Christ for 56 years. She was a devout Christian, a student of the bible, Sunday School Teacher and a worker in God's Kingdom. Like Dorcas, in the Bible (Acts 9:36), she was full of good works and charitable deeds. Her most important goal in life was to go to heaven and through her teaching and by her example, take her family and as many others with her as she could. She was a compassionate, selfless, caring and nurturing woman who will be greatly missed by her family and friends. May her light continue to shine in the lives of those whose hearts she has touched. Faye was preceded in death by her parents, J.D. and Lovie Dyals, one brother, Oliver Dyals, and two sisters, Iris Geiger and Darlene Rowe. Left to cherish her memory are her husband, H.C. Henderson, Jr., two sons, Skipper (Jan) Henderson and Adam (Amy) Henderson, two brothers, John (Linda) Dyals and Dan (Judy) Dyals, three grandchildren, Lindsey Ann Henderson, Hill Henderson and Hayden St. John Henderson, two great-grandchildren, Marley Ann Revels and Memphis Dean Henderson, her mother-in-law, Essielene Henderson and a host of other relatives and friends. Funeral services will be held Saturday, August 6, 2011 at 10:00 a.m. in the Chiefland High School Auditorium with Brother Dwayne Derrick and Brother Tommy Andrews officiating. Burial will follow at The Chiefland Cemetery. Visitation will be Friday, August 5, 2011 from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. at Knauff Funeral Home-Chiefland. In lieu of flowers, the family is requesting that memorial donations be made to the Levy County Schools Foundation, P.O. Box 1386, Bronson, FL 32621. These donations will be used to fund a scholarship in Faye's name for a deserving high school graduate entering college. Arrangements are under the care of Knauff Funeral Home-Chiefland.

HENDERSON, ALICE FAYE, 70

Chiefland - Alice Faye Henderson, 70, put off this earthly house on August 2, 2011 and now lives in a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens (11 Corinthians 5:1). Cancer ravaged her body but it could not conquer her spirit. Born January 17, 1941, Faye lived most of her life in Chiefland, Levy County, Florida. She attended Chiefland High School and graduated in 1959. She enjoyed school and especially sports. She was a hard driving basketball player, a cheerleader and played in the high school band. Her senior year she was voted "Most Athletic" and crowned "Miss C.H.S." On August 15, 1959, Faye married H.C. Henderson, Jr., who was her next door neighbor and high school sweetheart. The Lord blessed them with two loving sons, Skipper and Adam, and a wonderful marriage which stood the test of time for over 51 years. They owned and operated Levy Abstract & Title Company, in Bronson and Chiefland, for over half a century, helping people with their real estates closings and title insurance needs. Faye was a homemaker in the truest sense of the word. She knew how to make her house a home for her family. Among other things, she was a great cook and well known in her community for her delicious cakes and pies, which were very popular and quickly purchased at charity auctions, but were graciously given and shared with her friends and neighbors for many years. Faye had a zest for life and endless energy. She had a natural talent for decorating and landscaping, as evident in her home and yard. She enjoyed antiquing and was known to frequent antique malls, flea markets or other places where she might find a hidden treasure belonging to times long ago. Faye also enjoyed fishing with her husband and, more often than not, would out fish him. She was never ready to come home, believing that just one more cast would net her the biggest catch of the day. She had a spirit of adventure, and whether traveling with H.C. or her girlfriends, Faye was great fun. While Faye was full of energy and enjoyed both work and play, her greatest pleasure was in her family. She believed that it was important for them to spend time together and make sure that all birthdays and holidays were appropriately celebrated. After her family was grown she brought them back together with her Sunday after church dinners and her annual Christmas Eve oyster roast and feast. Faye was baptized into Christ at the young age of 14 and has been a member of the Chiefland Church of Christ for 56 years. She was a devout Christian, a student of the bible, Sunday School Teacher and a worker in God's Kingdom. Like Dorcas, in the Bible (Acts 9:36), she was full of good works and charitable deeds. Her most important goal in life was to go to heaven and through her teaching and by her example, take her family and as many others with her as she could. She was a compassionate, selfless, caring and nurturing woman who will be greatly missed by her family and friends. May her light continue to shine in the lives of those whose hearts she has touched. Faye was preceded in death by her parents, J.D. and Lovie Dyals, one brother, Oliver Dyals, and two sisters, Iris Geiger and Darlene Rowe. Left to cherish her memory are her husband, H.C. Henderson, Jr., two sons, Skipper (Jan) Henderson and Adam (Amy) Henderson, two brothers, John (Linda) Dyals and Dan (Judy) Dyals, three grandchildren, Lindsey Ann Henderson, Hill Henderson and Hayden St. John Henderson, two great-grandchildren, Marley Ann Revels and Memphis Dean Henderson, her mother-in-law, Essielene Henderson and a host of other relatives and friends. Funeral services will be held Saturday, August 6, 2011 at 10:00 a.m. in the Chiefland High School Auditorium with Brother Dwayne Derrick and Brother Tommy Andrews officiating. Burial will follow at The Chiefland Cemetery. Visitation will be Friday, August 5, 2011 from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. at Knauff Funeral Home-Chiefland. In lieu of flowers, the family is requesting that memorial donations be made to the Levy County Schools Foundation, P.O. Box 1386, Bronson, FL 32621. These donations will be used to fund a scholarship in Faye's name for a deserving high school graduate entering college. Arrangements are under the care of Knauff Funeral Home-Chiefland.

BESSETTE, VALERIE EDITH, 74

Ocala - Valerie Edith (Peck) Bessette, beloved wife of Arthur J. "Scott" Bessette, of Ocala, Florida, left our graces for a better place on Monday August 22nd, 2011. She was welcomed into the loving arms of her mother Amelia Ida (Mayotte) Peck, her father Elwood Carlton Peck, and her loving stepmother Edith (Corbishley) Peck of Rhode Island. A graduate of East Providence High School, in Rhode Island, she was active in band and an avid sailor, captaining her first sailboat, the Comet, to several wins. After a brief sojourn in California and then meeting her husband Scott back in Rhode Island during a visit home, they became engaged and then married in Pawtucket, Rhode Island. They began their travels around the world, locating first in Florida, then to the Phillipine Islands, Africa, Cyprus, Virginia, Greece and Hawaii, before retiring back in Rhode Island. They built their dream solar-enhanced home and enjoyed the arrival of several grandchildren before deciding that perhaps they had moved a little too far North after so many years in the sun. They relocated once again, this time to Oriental, North Carolina, where they accomplished another dream in the form of a 32-foot sailboat, lovingly named Ogeo (Our Gift To Each Other). Never happy to be in one place for too long, they decided to move even farther South, back to Florida, settling in Ocala and coming full-circle to where they had started their lives together. Valerie leaves behind a strong legacy of family values and empowerment in her three children, Sheryl Lynn (Bessette) Almy of Chesapeake, Virginia, Scott Douglas Bessette of Bluemont, Virginia, and Susan Anne (Bessette) Willard of Starkville, Mississippi. She is also the proud grandmother of Gabriella, Hayden, Christa, Chad, Alexis, Aiden, Carter and Ellie. In lieu of flowers, please consider a donation to Hospice of Marion County, 3231 SW 34th Ave., Ocala FL 34474. They provide a phenomenal support for patients and their families.

MORING, GARRISON ALEXANDER, 22

Dunnellon - Garrison Alexander Moring entered this world in the pre-dawn hours of October 19, 1988, a minute after his twin sister. He departed on September 18, 2011, shortly after 8:00 p.m., surrounded by his family and a few of his closest friends. Garrison is survived by his father, Jack, and step-mother, Patricia (Dunnellon); his mother, Sharon Fourakre, and step-father, Henry Fourakre (Ocala); his brothers, Jack, Jr. (Ocala), Philip (Orlando) and Ryan (Dunnellon), his twin sister, Jessamyn (Dunnellon), maternal grandparents, Ed and Mary Ann Phillips (Andrews, Texas), numerous aunts, uncles and cousins, and innumerable friends. Garrison was a 2007 graduate of Belleview High School. A baseball player almost since he could walk, he played football at Belleview and was part of his senior year's Homecoming Court. Garrison loved life. He was a student at the College of Central Florida, preparing to become . . . well, something, except he had not quite figured out what interested him enough to devote a lifetime to it. Blessed with an eye for detail, Garrison was a deft cartoonist/caricaturist from an early age. He delighted, however, in making those around him laugh. A gifted mimic, he often regaled listeners with his spot-on impressions of sports announcer Harry Caray, Leon Phelps ("The Ladies' Man"), Ron Burgundy ("Anchorman"), alligator hunter Troy Landry ("Choot 'em, Elizabeth!"), and many others. Though Garrison's body was ravaged by the Ewing Sarcoma that ultimately took his life, cancer never affected his indomitable spirit, zest for life, the gleam in his piercing blue eyes or his smile. Garrison desperately wanted a cure for Ewing Sarcoma. He would not want flowers or other temporary remembrances. Those who wish to honor him should consider donating to those who worked tirelessly for him and who continue to work tirelessly for others until a cure is found: The All Children's Hospital Hematology/Oncology Restricted Fund; the National Cancer Institute; and Hospice of Citrus County, Inc. A private memorial for Garrison will be held this weekend. A more public celebration of his life will be held in the near future and will be announced when plans are finalized.

MORING, GARRISON ALEXANDER, 22

Dunnellon - Garrison Alexander Moring entered this world in the pre-dawn hours of October 19, 1988, a minute after his twin sister. He departed on September 18, 2011, shortly after 8:00 p.m., surrounded by his family and a few of his closest friends. Garrison is survived by his father, Jack, and step-mother, Patricia (Dunnellon); his mother, Sharon Fourakre, and step-father, Henry Fourakre (Ocala); his brothers, Jack, Jr. (Ocala), Philip (Orlando) and Ryan (Dunnellon), his twin sister, Jessamyn (Dunnellon), maternal grandparents, Ed and Mary Ann Phillips (Andrews, Texas), numerous aunts, uncles and cousins, and innumerable friends. Garrison was a 2007 graduate of Belleview High School. A baseball player almost since he could walk, he played football at Belleview and was part of his senior year's Homecoming Court. Garrison loved life. He was a student at the College of Central Florida, preparing to become . . . well, something, except he had not quite figured out what interested him enough to devote a lifetime to it. Blessed with an eye for detail, Garrison was a deft cartoonist/caricaturist from an early age. He delighted, however, in making those around him laugh. A gifted mimic, he often regaled listeners with his spot-on impressions of sports announcer Harry Caray, Leon Phelps ("The Ladies' Man"), Ron Burgundy ("Anchorman"), alligator hunter Troy Landry ("Choot 'em, Elizabeth!"), and many others. Though Garrison's body was ravaged by the Ewing Sarcoma that ultimately took his life, cancer never affected his indomitable spirit, zest for life, the gleam in his piercing blue eyes or his smile. Garrison desperately wanted a cure for Ewing Sarcoma. He would not want flowers or other temporary remembrances. Those who wish to honor him should consider donating to those who worked tirelessly for him and who continue to work tirelessly for others until a cure is found: The All Children's Hospital Hematology/Oncology Restricted Fund; the National Cancer Institute; and Hospice of Citrus County, Inc. A private memorial for Garrison will be held this weekend. A more public celebration of his life will be held in the near future and will be announced when plans are finalized.

LEEWARD, JAMES KENT

Ocala - James Kent "Jimmy" Leeward passed away on Friday, September 16, 2011. Jimmy was born on October 21, 1936 in Brackenridge, PA to parents Albert and Mary Virginia Leeward. "Big Al" taught his son how to fly, setting him free on his first solo in an AT-6 at age 14. While attending high school in Fort Wayne, IN, Jimmy met the other love-of-his-life that became the love, Bette Hofacker, moving to Ocala in 1962. Jimmy was in the aviation business, but diversified into construction and real estate development. Of the dozens of projects he did, the one for which he was most passionate is Leeward Air Ranch. Jimmy was the consummate aviator, flying over 250 types of aircraft during his life. The family has many wonderful memories of his flying in Air Races, Air Shows, and many movies. His generosity abounded, with him flying multiple relief efforts to third world countries stricken by famine and natural disasters. Jim served his local community and the aviation community on various committees and boards of many organizations. His sense of family, adventure, love, friendship, and generosity will live on through his wife Bette, sons Dirk (Donna), Kent (Stephani), and Chad (Ryan), all of Ocala, and daughter Tracy (Derek Kuipers) of Atlanta; grandchildren Ryan, Allison, Kylie, Connor and Hollis, all of Ocala, and Hudson and Canon Kuipers of Atlanta; sisters Judi (Bill Koselka) and Suzanne Yingling; and niece Laura (Michael Poffenberger and son Ayrton). The family will honor his life Friday, September 30, 2011. The service for all of his friends and friends of his family will be held at Blessed Trinity Catholic Church (Ocala) at 12:30 p.m. with a wake following at Leeward Air Ranch. Jimmy wouldn't have it any other way, so air race crew uniforms or aviation garb are welcome at both the funeral and the wake.

KETZANOOK, SYLVIA, 97

Ocala - Sylvia Ketzanook, 97, of Pine Run Estates, Ocala, and Florida passed away on Thursday, October 13, 2011 at Sylvia's House in Ocala. God said it was time to come home... what a life she had. Born as Waselka Lena Korolenchuk in Saskatchewan to her Ukrainian immigrant parents Reharry & Axana Korolenchuk, she became an American citizen on June 23, 1944. With her new life in America, a new marriage to Walter Ketzanook (deceased), a new name was chosen by her and her sister Sonja. She would now be known as Sylvia W. Ketzanook. She and her beloved husband Walter had a beautiful daughter Sandra Marie (deceased) who went on to marry her talented son-in-law Ron Sweetz (deceased) who went on to perform before President John F. Kennedy, and on several variety shows such as Ed Sullivan. With his musical gift and Sylvia's love of dance there were many happy times to be had. Through the years she was blessed with five beautiful grandchildren and six great grand-children. She leaves to cherish her memories and a strong connection of her Ukrainian heritage to her devoted caregivers, granddaughter Terri Sweetz Robinson and grandson-in-law Frank Robinson Jr. along with their two daughters and her great granddaughters Kayla and Kelsey Robinson. She also leaves behind her loving grandson Tim Sweetz and his wife Amanda, and their children, her great grandchildren, Mitchell and Emily Sweetz. She was predeceased by her loving grandson Rob Sweetz. She leaves behind her grandson Rick Sweetz, great granddaughter Jen Sweetz, granddaughter Christy Sweetz Woods, and great grandson Braden Woods. Also treasuring her memory is her extended family June and Charles

Bass, and Richie, Debbie, & Frankie Marino. Sylvia, better known to all of us as "Grandma" loved the Lord and always put family first. She was a founding member of Advent Episcopal Church, enjoyed traveling, gardening, and cooking. We will remember the smiles she shared, hugs she gave, and the memories she made. Grandma was such a blessing in our lives and she left a smile full of love on our hearts. We will celebrate her life on Monday, October 17, 2011 at 4:00 PM at Hiers-Baxley Funeral Services, 910 E. FLEISCHMAN, BERNICE KNOWLES

Bernice (Bee) Jane Knowles Fleischman died at her home in Ocala, Florida on Thursday, November 10, 2011 at the age of 84. Bee was born in Latrobe, Pennsylvania on August 14, 1927, the daughter of Frank and Rosalia Tess Knowles.

Afflicted with polio, Bee lived at the D.T. Watson Home for Crippled Children in Leetsdale, Pennsylvania from age 6 to 14 years. After the accidental death of her father, she left the D.T. Watson home to move with her mother and four siblings to St.

Petersburg, Florida. In St. Petersburg, she attended Tomlinson Vocational School. She met and married her husband, John Thomas Fleischman, in St. Petersburg. They made homes in St. Petersburg, Ocala, Palatka, and Gainesville, FL.

Bee was a loving mother and doting grandmother whose candy jar was always full and patience level was always high. Bee showed compassion and love to everyone. Her door was open to all in need no matter the circumstance. She exhibited only kindness; never judgment. Whether known as Bee, Mom, Grandma Bee, MomBee, or Aunt Bee, she was always a pillar of support and calming influence in the lives of those she touched.

Her kitchen was her domain and she let you know it. She enjoyed working the crossword puzzle every morning and was known to play a game of Scrabble or two or three. When on her scooter, watch out as she was on the go, forwards and backwards, and one needed to stay out of her way. She loved to swim and later in life she met many new friends while attending water exercise classes at Lifetime Fitness Center.

Bee was preceded in death by her husband, John Thomas Fleischman, parents Frank and Rosalia Knowles, brothers David Tess, Indianapolis, IN, and Frank "Skip" Knowles, Tampa, FL and sister, Shirley Phillips, Gulf Breeze, FL. Ocala - Agnes Moses Shashy died peacefully in her home, on Tuesday, December 27, 2011, one day short of her 87th birthday. She was the daughter of Naif and Dawighi Moses Shashy and the sister of Abraham, "Junior", and Richard, all now deceased. Before retiring, she worked with her father, brothers and cousin, Mary Moses Shashy Jones, in the family business. She lived her entire life in Ocala. Agnes' joy in life was her family. The fortunate and very special recipients of her boundless love and generosity were her nieces and nephews - Barbara Shashy Wright, Abraham "Hap" Shashy, David Shashy, Leslie Shashy McLaugherty, Terry Shashy Towles, and Kimberly Shashy. "Aunty" was always that very special person who spoiled them, helped them and listened. In Agnes' eyes, they could do no wrong. The family will welcome visitors at Blessed Trinity Catholic Church, where Agnes was a faithful parishioner, from 10:00 A.M. to 12:00 P.M. on Saturday, December 31st. A Mass of Christian Burial will follow at 12:00 P.M. with Fr. Patrick J. Sheedy officiating. Interment will be in the Woodlawn Cemetery. Immediately following the committal services, the family will have a reception at the Elks Club and Lodge, 702 NE 25th Ave. In a conversation with a niece shortly before her death, Agnes spoke with great happiness of the Christmas she spent with her 3 year old twin grand nephews, Ben and Dan, sons of David and Angie Shashy. They were, she said "just darling". Her boundless love continued. Arrangements are under the care of Roberts Funeral Homes Downtown Chapel, 352-622-4141.
